What is Linguistics?

「語言學」是什麼？

Linguistics is the scientific study of language, its structure, use, and acquisition. It is a relatively young discipline, still emerging and interacting with many other academic disciplines. In the study of linguistics, the traditional boundaries of the arts and sciences are crossed.

語言學對語言結構、語言使用及語言獲得等各個方面進行科學的研究。語言學是一門較為年輕且正在蓬勃發展的學科。語言學具有跨學科的特點，其研究範圍跨越了傳統意義上文理分科的界限。

What are Modern Languages?

「現代語言」是什麼？

Modern Languages refer to languages that are living, and currently spoken by people in thriving communities, as opposed to the classical languages that are extinct and no longer have surviving native speakers.

In addition to the seven minor programmes in French, German, Hong Kong Sign Language, Korean, Spanish, and Chinese Language as a Second Language (Cantonese/Putonghua), our department also offers four other languages as elective courses, including Arabic, Italian, Russian, and Thai.

「現代語言」泛指所有現時為不同社群日常所用的、不斷演變的語言，有別於只存於古籍、不再具生命力的古語。

本系開設法語、德語、香港手語、韓語、西班牙語和華語(粵語/普通話)二語共七項副修課程，以及阿拉伯語、意大利語、俄語和泰語四種現代語言的選修課程。
