

The Chinese University of Hong Kong
Department of Linguistics and Modern Languages
Term 2, 2025-2026

Course code: LING5202
Title in English: Topics in Bilingualism
Title in Chinese: 雙語研究

Course Description:

This course introduces general issues in the study of bilingualism. Basic questions such as how to define bilingualism, degrees of bilingualism, types of bilinguals will be examined. Some myths and misconceptions about bilingualism will be discussed and dispelled in light of the findings derived from research on cognitive advantages of bilingualism. The emphasis of the first part of the course will be on individual bilingualism and how children acquire more than one language. Data from the development of bilingual children exposed to Chinese and English across diverse contexts will be used for illustration. Issues regarding how heritage speakers acquire Cantonese/Mandarin will also be discussed.

Another integral part of the course deals with bilingualism as a societal phenomenon touching upon differently valued languages, and speech behaviour. Aspects of bilingualism such as code-mixing will be covered with special relevance to the Hong Kong context.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Defining bilingualism, types of bilinguals 	different approaches to defining bilingualism and bilinguals, significance of bilingualism, individual and societal bilingualism
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Bilingual and multilingual acquisition cross-linguistic influence, degrees of balance, language dominance, properties of dual input 	theoretical issues and methods of data collection, developmental stages, compare monolingual and bilingual development
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Heritage bilingualism 	heritage language acquisition and unbalanced bilinguals, incomplete acquisition, language attrition
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Bilingualism and cognition 	cognitive advantages of bilingual children and adults
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Bilingualism in Hong Kong 	how languages come in contact, characteristics of Hong Kong bilinguals, code-mixing in bilingual speech

Learning outcomes:

- acquire the basic concepts in the field of bilingualism
- compare and contrast language development in bilingual and monolingual children
- deepen students' appreciation of the significance of bilingualism in the individual and society
- raise students' multilingual awareness in the age of globalisation
- analyze bilingual data and evaluate the bilingual situation in the local community
- develop ability to learn, discuss and work in a group

Learning activities

- lecture
- use of multimedia materials e.g. video clips
- interactive tutorial
- discussion of language phenomena
- projects

Course components (Teaching modes and Learning activities)

M: Mandatory activity in the course

O: Optional activity

NA: Not applicable

Assessment scheme

Assessment type	Description	Weight
A quiz that covers materials in the first part of the course	Exam	35%
A project that conducts an in-depth study of a topic of interest	Term project	30%
Presentation of project	Project presentation	20%
Tutorial participation	Active participation in tutorials (tutorial readings, comments and engagement)	15%

The Teaching Assistant(s) will assist with marking the midterm quiz, keep track of the attendance in each class and tutorial, evaluate your participation and engagement in class and tutorial activities, help students form groups of 2 or at most 3 to work on the term projects and ensure the proper submission of term projects.

- A facility for posting course announcements

All announcements of the course will be posted on Blackboard.

- Academic honesty and plagiarism

“Attention is drawn to University policy and regulations on honesty in academic work, and to the disciplinary guidelines and procedures applicable to breaches of such policy and regulations. Details may be found at <http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/> With each assignment, students will be required to submit a statement that they are aware of these policies, regulations, guidelines and procedures.”

For each written assignment, students are required to submit a signed declaration that they are aware of these policies, regulations, guidelines and procedures. For group projects, all students of the same group should be asked to sign on the declaration.

For assignments/papers in the form of a computer-generated document that is principally text-based and submitted via VeriGuide, the statement, in the form of a receipt, will be issued by the system upon students' uploading of the soft copy of the assignment. Assignments without the receipt will not be graded by teachers. Only the final version of the assignment should be submitted via VeriGuide.

- For assignments in the form of a computer-generated document that is principally text-based and submitted via VeriGuide, the statement, in the form of a receipt, will be issued by the system upon students' uploading of the soft copy of the assignment.
- Students are fully aware that their work may be investigated by AI content detection software to determine originality.
- Students are fully aware of the AI approach(es) adopted in the course. In the case where some AI tools are allowed, students have made proper acknowledgment and citations as suggested by the course teacher.

Assignments without a properly signed declaration will not be graded by teachers. Only the final version of the assignment should be submitted via VeriGuide.

The submission of a piece of work, or a part of a piece of work, for more than one purpose (e.g. to satisfy the requirements in two different courses) without declaration to this effect shall be regarded as having committed undeclared multiple submissions. It is common and acceptable to reuse a turn of phrase or a sentence or two from one's own work; but wholesale reuse is problematic. In any case, agreement from the course teacher(s) concerned should be obtained prior to the submission of the piece of work.
